SCRATCHING AT GRAVESEND THE WITHDRAWAL OF GLEANER STIRS P A GENERAL COMMOTION.

Sarrison Loses a Probable Winning Mount ard Buyers of Combinations a Good Chases—A Rather Lively Racing Day, The first thing that the great throng of visitors to the Brooklyn Jockey Club's races setled restorday was a very wet and heavy The next object of interest was the uletin board on which the names of nonstarters are chalked. An hour before the time for racing to begin the board was half filled with names of scratched horses, and scratching continued in order up to the last race, when twenty-five had been stricken out of the rather limited fields of horses. The scratch that cut the deepest came in the field of eight entries for the fifth race, four of which were drawn out, including Gleaner, that was to have been ridden by Garrison.

Although the horse was scratched within the regulation time, his name appeared on some of the bookmakers' slates, while a host of seconomical investors who buy combination tickets had made Gleaner their main hope for harvest. Many had played Fordham Bessie June in their combination, and Me-Laughlin had landed them winners, so they all felt pretty sure of making a big hit. Great was the commotion, therefore, when Barney Aaron rushed into the ring, shouting: "Gleaner scratched! All bets off!"

Hundreds started for the judges' stand, while other hundreds surrounded the combi-nation men and the regular bookmakers. The builetin on the judges' stand announced that oner would be refunded on all combinations with Gleaner in. Ugly rumors were rife that the combination men stood to lose thousands of dollars if Gleaner won, and that they had secured his withdrawal. Mr. Philip Dwyer, President of the club. said that if any man would bring him proof of dirty work he would pay higher than any other man for the information. The interests of the betting public would be protected at any cost.

With this purpose in view, all money bet on the race was ordered to be returned. The bookmakers and combination men agreed to bookmakers and combination men agreed to do this and half an hour was given to square up in and make new slates with Gleaner out. It was said in the paddock that Hayden & Barry, owners of Gleaner, had scratched him because he was lame and unfit to run in the mud. Ed Corrigan was reported as saying that he had met the horse on the way from sheepshead Bay to the track, and that, so far as he could see, there was nothing the matter with the horse.

Sheepshead Bay to the track, and that, so far as he could see, there was nothing the matter with the horse.

The case will be thoroughly investigated by the Executive Committee, aided by detectives. Garrison was disappointed by losing the mount. McLaughlin had won two races, which made the score of the rivals stand 80 for Garrison, against 79 for McLaughlin.

Eight started on the muddy track for the first curse for all ages at three-quarters of a mile. Capt. Sam Brown's three-year-old colt Stuyvesant, with Garrison up, was a slight favorite ever Byron McCielland's two-year-old colt Badge, ridden by Anderson. Mr. Strett's two-year-old colt Umpire, piloted by Eilke, a thirty-to-one chance, ran out from the bunch in the opening strides, showing the way to the beginning of the last furlong, where he was done for. Stuyvesant and Badga then ran out from the front line. Half a furlong from home Badge left Stuyvesant with two sweeping bounds and same in winner six lengths in front of the Calfornian. Umpire came third. The time was very slow—1:20%. Mr. Haggin's stable, that promised so well in the spring, has run down so that he is not sure of winning a selling race. Four appeared in the handicap sweepstakes at one mile and a quarter. William Lakeland's horse Exile, ridden by Garrison, was a strong favorite at 5 to 4 on. Mr. Jordan's mare Swift, with Church up, was second choice at 3 to 5 azainst. The mare earned a hoap of money the finish, won by five lengths, Exile getting the place.

Eight two-year-olds came out to join in the selling dash of three-quarters of a mile for a 5600 purse. Dwyer Brothers' colt Fordham carried the top weight, 112 pounds, and with McLaughlin in the saddle ho was a strong favorite in the betting. The little filly Bo-Feep held second place in the books, Joe Lee, straddled by Garrison, having the third call. Bo-Feep's neck stretched out of the front line at the send-off. Garrison falled to get Joe Lee away promptly with the others. Bo-Feep led Fordham a length at the quarter, Carris G. and Locust inpping Fordham, Lecust, Bo-Peep, and Fordham made the turn at King's Highway neck and neck. Locust showing the way into the last quarter a neck in front of the favorite. When straightened for the home run McLaughlin moved Fordham out, sending him in an easy winner in a canter, three lengths ahead of Locust, Carrie G. getting third place. There was no bid for the winner.

The race of a mile and a furlong for the Ocean View Stakes for three-year-olds brought only four out of the nine entries to the post.

The race of a mile and a furlong for the Ocean View Stakes for three-year-olds brought only four out of the nine entries to the post. The Brooklyn Stable's filly Bessis June, with McLaughlin in the saddle, carried the bulk of the money. The four started in compact stape. Aroar of applause rolled across the field to the racers when the spectators saw the four racing along the backstretch all abreast in a ness-and-nose brush. Bessis June spoiled the picture at the turn for the King's Highway by drawing out of the group and swinging into the homestretch with a lead of six lengths. Seeping the gap open. Bessie won in a canter, Lady Primrose getting secone place.

W. H. Barrett's filly Nellio Van, ridden by Harris, was made the lavorite in the selling race, for which nine started. She carried the light weight of 98 pounds, and, judging by previous performances, she should have won. She got away in a good position, but did not reach the front in any part of the run of one mile and a sixteenth. Maggic Mitchell ran out in the final furlong, winning the race handly, two lengths in front of Carlasims. Nellie Van linishing head and head with Bonnie S. and Queen Bess a dezen lengths behind the second horse. Harris was called into the stand and questioned by the judges as to his riding; but no decision was rendered, the case being held over under advisement. The winner was entered at a valuation of $2,000. She was run up to $2,650, Alderman Shields buying her at that. Following are the summaries with the betting on all the horses that ran:

HELD AS FIREBUGS.

Louis and Hornes Van Nest Stand Idly By The preliminary examinations in the case concluded yesterday before City Judge Ulrich. and two of the Van Nest brothers, Louis and Horace, who were accused of burning Mr. Parse's house, in which they lived, were held action of the Grand Jury. Beven arrests in all were made, and it is believed that with yesterday's proceedings the last of the firebugs have been disposed of. The most persistent of them all was John M. Jackson. Besides being implicated in the Carmon Parse fire, several months ago he joined with Horace barn. He was also recently caught in the act of firing a house belonging to Frazer Lee, and on Aug. 14, with Theodore Van Nest, he set fire to a barn belonging to Samuel McCutcheon. Theodore Van Nest, a brother of Louis and Horace, had already been held for the Grand Jury. John M. Jackson waived examination on all charges. Philip Hapenny, who is accused of firing Isaac P. Brown's barn, also awaits the Grand Jury's action. The other two volunteer firemen arrested have been discharged. Skinner was arrested at the time the two volunteer firemen arrested have been discharged. Skinner was arrested at the time the others were because he was known to be intimate with them, but he was almost immediately set at liberty. George Reed was examined yesterday morning before the Van Nest examination took place, and the complaint against him was dismissed. Both Skinner and Reed are hold, however, as witnesses.

Thaddeus O, Doane, the Chief Engineer of the Volunteer Firemen's Association, testified yesterday that when he reached the Parse first was well started, and both Louis and Horace van Ness were looking on, while others were working. He found the cellar all ablaze, and remarked that it was strange the fire should have eaten its way down there, since Louis told him it started under the back porch. The tank up stairs contained no water, none of the faucests in the house yielded any, and the lever pin of the kitchen pump was missing, making it impossible to get water there. He could find no palls or buckets anywhere in the house. A witness named Murray testified that he found the pump in the back yard also without a pin. It could not be worked.

William C. Burt, a neighbor, testified that he and his son rigged the outside pump by using a button hook for a pin, and found the pump otherwise in capital order. They used a baby's bathtub to carry water in. The fire was under the back porch, and burned so bright that he was sure some more inflammable substance than wood had been placed there. A quantity of furniture belonging to James N. Honeyman, who was to take possession of the house on that day, was stored within. This Mr. Burt helped remove, but he would not help save the Van Nests furniture because be was disgusted with their indifference.

Estella M. Jackson, the wife of one of the men arrested, testified that Horace Van Nest was at her house a few days before the fire, and said there would to a "damn big blaze at his house before he left." On her protesting that he would rate doit, he repiled, "You'll see there'll be a damn fine shine bef

It though his absence will, it is said, be for an indefinite period. Mrs. Russell will remain at her handsome residence in Paterson. This has been sufficient to create another little sensation. There seems to be no other ground for any of the ridiculous stories current. Mr. Russell's health is poor, he desires to preach, and as he has found that the climate of Italy agrees with him better than any other, it is natural that he should desire to go there, while as for Mrs. Russell, her large property interests require her remaining in Paterson, at least for the present.

On Saturday night frommy Miller and Paisey O'Leary, the feather-weight pugillata, were taking in the town in great shape. In the course of their caroussi they wandered into Higgins's saloon, back of the St. Cloud restaurant, and ordered bottle after bottle of wine. Some one in the restaurant had ordered a bottle of wine, and W. Higgins coming into the saloon, the bartenier stepped up to him and in a low tone informed him that it had not been paid indeed and to the bartenier and meedinately became wild. Walking at him earlier the bartenier he smashed him in the Taes and knocked him down. At this point O'Leary in the fresh and momentated with Miller, whereinpon the lister turned upon O'Leary with the remark. "What's the matter with you!" Why, I could eat you!" Perhaps you would like to try it!" retorted Paisey. This was enough for Miller, and the two clinched. After wrestling around for a few moments, O'Leary began to beg most pitcously and finally howled like a whipped cur. Miller struck him once, and that quieted the pulliar from Cindinnati. THEY DECLINED TO JOIN THE SECTEMENTS.

PITTSEERON, Sept. 23.—It has just been developed that an important secsion of the New York and Pittsburgh teams, who are members of the Brotherhood, was held in this client. Let complete organization of the Pittsburgh (Lapter to it would be prepared for the battle which will surely occur about a month hence. Of course the assion was of a star chamber nature, but it was learned today that there was considerable lively discussion over the fact that two members of the local inte had declined to join the organization. The matter was discussed for some time, but the action taken could not be learned. The applications of Fields and Heecher were received and favorably acted on, and they will be initiated shortly. Free Carroll was made Freeitlett of the Fittsburgh, made whith the member of the members who declined to join. They had reasons of their own which they did not care about making public. It is probable that the players will nake every effort to induce them to join, as they desire a compact body to resist the League.

New York has secured the large number of three clean hits in the last two games with the Detroits. Remarkable betting that, to say the least.

The Detroit and St. Louis Clubs have arranged to play in Brocklym on Oct. 15 and 22, and the St. Louis and Brocklym Clubs will play at Ridgewood on Oct. 16 and 23.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Secretary Fairchild to the Treasury, and, after a consultation with Acting Secretary Thompson, relired to his office to look after his mail and other personal matters. He will remain in his mail and other personal matters. He will remain in the city a day or two only, and will not during his stay assume the formal duties of his office.

The recretary said that all that had been done relative to bond purchases met with his approval, and he had been fully advised in advance of the intention to issue the last circular. Whether the measures adopted to meet the emergency in the financial world would be effectual could only be told from subsequent events. Mr. Fairchild intends to go to New York in a day or two to see the international yacht races. He expects to return to Washington by the end of next week, and will remain here during the Freeldent's absence on his Western and Southern trip.

The South Atlantic Squadron

Washington, Sept. 23.—Rear Admiral Braine. mmanding the South Atlantic equadron, reports to the Navy Department that the vessels of the squadron passed the month of August in the port of Rio Janeiro, with the exception of ten days consumed in fiest exercises at Ilha Grande. The Lancaster was at the date of writing (Aug. 31) awaiting the daily expected arrival of the Trenton with relief of officers and men. As soon as a surgeon could be procured from the Trenton the Alliance would sail for Bahla and Fernambeco, and return to Rio on Oct. 15. The Tallapoosa, then in dry dock would soon be ordered to visit Santa Catharias. Mraxil, and certain ports in the Uruguayan and Argentine republics. The health of the squadron was good. The Treuton had reported her arrival at St. Vincent's, Cape de Verd Islands, Aug. 18, and could not, therefore, be expected at Rio before Sept. 5. WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.-Minister Lainfiesta WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Minister Lainfiesta says there is no religious war in Guatemala except the opposition of the elergy to the Liberal party, the same as in Mexico. The Second Secretary of the Mexican Legation recently complained, he says, of having been assuited at night in one of the streets of Guatemala, but by did not know his assailant. The Government has offered to punish the guitty party according to law when identified, but refuses to give Mexico, because of that incident, a satisfaction not warranted by international law. The Minister denies that Guatemala is attempting to secure the support of the United States Government as against Mexico.

GOULD IS GOING TO EUROPE.

WALL STREET TAKES IT AS HIS RETIRE-MENT FROM THE STOCK MARKET. He will Sail Around Some in his Tacht, but he will Not Cross in her-He Does Not Wast the B. and O. Telegraph System.

Wall street is strongly of the opinion that Mr. Jay Gould is going to furnish conclusive evidence of his retirement from the stock mar-ket by going abroad for the winter. A few people are of the opinion, however, that no matter where he may go Mr. Gould will not leave the stock market entirely alone as long as he has a share of stock for which there is a market. However this may be, it is very clear that Mr. Gould is sticking to his promise never again to come to the support of the market as a leader. He is evidently one of the few men who tackle Wall street who know when to quit. He is certainly making extensive preparations for a trip to Europe, and the best information obtainable is that he will remain abroad all winter, say six months or so. The Atalanta is being put into shape for a sea voyage, but Mr. Gould will not go over in her, but will send her in advance, and take passage in one of the regular steam ships, probably about Oct. 15. It is understood that he will do the southern coast of Europe in his yacht and cruise about generally in her.

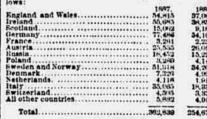

Some people down town think Mr. Gould will buy the Baitimore and Ohio Telegraph system before he goes abroad, but, according to very roliable advices, he shows no special anxiety to become the proprietor of the Western Union Company's principal competitor. The situation seems to be that the Baitimore and Ohio people want to sell their telegraph lines, and the syndicate that has taken an interest in Baitimore and Ohio affairs unquestionably would like to see Mr. Gould buy the system, as it would help the general situation. But the fact is the price of the property seems to have advanced lately, and Mr. Gould does not seem to be as interested in negotiating a purchase as he was when the late financier, Henry S. Ives, offered it to him at $3,500,000. It is difficult to see why any one should want to go into ships, probably about Oct. 15. It is understood as he was when the late financier, Henry S. Ives, offered it to him at $3,500,000. It is difficult to see why any one should want to go into the business of competitive telegraphy, since it has proved disastrously unprofitable of late years, yet it is commonly reported that some interest or syndicate not identified with Western Union is trying to buy the Baltimore and Ohio system.

Mr. Gould was non-committal when asked about his proposed foreign trip yesterilay; indeed, he was non-committal upon all of the subjects referred to above except the stock market, relating to which he remarked that stocks looked cheap. He has confided to a few of his friends that he has bought a few of them, but here his information stops.

Wall street will possibly feel that it is due to it that before he leaves the country Mr. Gould should enlighten the investment and speculative communities as to the extent he has lightened his tin box since he ostensibly retired from the stock market two years agd. One of the sages of the street remarked yesterday that if Mr. Gould could convince the public that he had sold about half of his enormous holdings of Missourl Pacific and of Western Union. the general list might reasonably be advanced to a point where he could sell the other half at better advantage than he could to-day. As a matter of fact, wall street hopes Mr. Gould will show his box once more before he goes away, and the street also hopes, in the interest of better prices, that he will show it practically empty of stocks.

CLOSING PRICES.

FRIDAY, Sept. 23. There was less of a market in every respect on the Stock Exchange to-day than for a number of days past. The volume of trading was a good deal smaller, the fluctuations narrower, and the general movement of prices less pronounced. That the market should practically come to a standstill after the radical movements that characterized the earlier part of the week is not surprising. In fact, this condition to-day was both natural and desirable. A continuation of the upward movement that started in on Tuesday would unquestionably have had the appearance of manipulation, and would have created an impression that the re-cent buyers of stocks were not content to swalt the outcome of events to establish the market that they desire. London realized moderately on some of its recent purchases, but these sales were well taken, and made very little impression upon prices until afternoon, when realizing by traders and some demonstrations of vitality by the short interest depressed prices mod-erately. The new policy of the Treasury Department appears to be producing substantial as well as moral results, the purchases of bonds up to the close of business to-day aggregating $5,000,000. This required a disbursoment of bout $6,000,000, as most of the bonds sold are about $6,000,000, as most of the bonds sold are $\foats$ cents. Outside of the improvement in the monetary situation there were no new developments affecting stock values. The bond market has already begun to reflect the easier rates for money, bonds being in bettor demand at advancing figures.

Heading, St. Paul, and Western Union continue to lend the list in point of activity. The movement in St. Paul was the most conspleuous to-day, in connection with intimations that the short interest in the stock might be forced to cover. The final movement left prices in the main a little lower than yesterday. A number of stocks, notably Lackawanna and Richmond Terminal, closed higher or practically unchanged.

In the Unlisted Department there were sales of Cotton Oil Trusts at 30 to 28%, closing at the lower figure. California Pacific sold at 7, and Western National Bank at 94. The closing was quiet, but fairly steady.
